Hello fellow road warriors!

Shawn here to let you know the 25th Annual Manufacturers RV Show will be roaring into Pleasanton on January 11. This is a big one--our 25th anniversary! That means we'll have a multitude of manufacturers on hand ready to wheel and deal on an extraordinary selection of recreational vehicles and accessories.

While the economy isn't back to its booming self, not to worry--RVing remains one of the cheapest ways to take the family on a great vacation. A cost comparison study commissioned by the Recreation Vehicle Industry Association shows that a family of four can save 23-to-59% on vacation costs, depending on the type of trip and type of RV used. A two-person travel party (the typical empty-nest couple) would save 11-to-46%.

"The study puts numbers to what RV owners have known for years--if you want to save money on travel, go RVing," said RVIA President Richard Coon. "With the opportunity for frequent getaways to spend quality time outdoors with family and friends, RV ownership is a great value."

Gas prices would need to more than quadruple from their current level to make RVing more expensive for a family of four than other forms of travel, according to the study. And don't forget, fluctuating fuel prices affect the cost of all modes of travel and transportation.

The facts don't lie. If you're ready to treat the whole family to a great, and sensible, holiday present, head on down to our show in Pleasanton at the Alameda County Fairgrounds between January 11-21. We'll have hundreds of RVs of all makes and models under one tent at prices that can't be beat!

So be sure to save some of that Christmas cash so you can ride in style in the coming year. Until then, here are some vacation ideas to check out for a winter break. There is nothing quite like experiencing the quiet majesty of Yosemite in the snow.

See you at the show!
